

Taking dental care to needy

THINK all dentists are money-hungry ghouls, only concerned with funding their next sports car? Think again.

A prominent CBD neuromuscular dentist is spearheading a national charity dental day aimed at providing $2 million worth of free dentistry services on October 17.

Dr Chris Hart, founder of the Life Time Smiles Group, is the chairman of the National Dental Foundation (NDF); a not-for-profit organisation whose charter is to bring good dental health to as many Australians as possible.

Through their national charity day initiative, the NDF are looking to treat a large segment of the community who may not be able to afford or access dental facilities.

Dr Hart will be leading the Queensland leg of the National Dental Volunteer Day on October 17, where he expects to treat about 150 patients at his Brisbane, Melbourne and Mt Isa practices that day, in conjunction with other dental practices across Australia.

The Life Time Smiles group's flagship Brisbane office is at the T & G Building, Level 17/ 141 Queen St, City: 3221 7273.
